

Austin named 3rd most generous city in U.S.

Austin Business Journal by Vicky Garza, Staff Writer

Date: Tuesday, December 20, 2011, 2:53pm CST - Last Modified: Tuesday, December 20, 2011, 3:01pm CST

Related:

Austin

Vicky Garza

Staff Writer - Austin Business Journal

Email

Austin has been ranked in the top 10 most generous cities in the United States, along with five other Texas communities.

The Capital City ranked No. 3 behind Dallas but was listed above Houston, Arlington, and Fort Worth.

The average holiday charitable donation in Austin is $149.60, according to data provided by Bundle, a provider of information on consumer spending habits.

Austinites increase their charitable donations during the holiday season by 16.2 percent compared with rest of the year.

The complete report can be found on the The Daily Beast website.

Want to stay up to date? Sign up for our DailyUpdate news blast email.

Government, Legal, Transportation

Wells Fargo Advisors Estate Planning

Get your free estate planning toolkit from Wells Fargo Advisors.

PlayStation Universe

Get the latest PlayStation news, tips & tricks.

